Overwork Is as Harmful to the Eye as It Is to Other Human Organs

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEE
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Our eyes are used almost constantly from the moment of birth to the time of death except for the hours spent in sleeping. As in the case of other organs, overwork of the eye results in earlier exhaustion. Hence it is important to conserve vision in every way possible.

The eye may be rested exactly as may any other organ or tissue of the body and it is wise to give it regular rest periods. Moreover, it is possible to lessen strain upon the eye by giving it suitable working conditions.

The mechanism of vision is complicated and different to understand without exact knowledge of construction of the eye. Actually, we do not see with the eye, but with the brain and the nervous system. Therefore, the chief factors involved in seeing are the optic nerve and vision center in the brain.

Next comes the retina, a tissue behind the eye, which is a part of the nervous system and which conveys visions to the optic nerve. The lens is actually a lens and serves to focus objects on the retina. The muscles control size and shape of the lens in its focusing.

There also are accessory muscles which move the eyeball. Then there is the iris, which makes up the pupil and which, by dilating and contracting, controls the amount of light entering the eye. In addition, there are the usual blood vessels, nerves, and similar tissues which are necessary for proper functioning of any living tissue, and, finally, the bony house or portion of the skull in which the eye is placed.

The eye when functioning normally has the ability to adapt itself to various conditions of light, but even this mechanism of adaptation may be exhausted by overuse.

Thus, it is wise to provide suitable lighting rather than to invite eyestrain with insufficient light.

It also is possible to strain the eye by an over-amount of badly distributed light, which results in glare. Glare and strain cause fatigue of the eye, with resultant increased danger of accident.

There now are available devices for measuring the amount of light in use at any point in office, shop, or home. They are made to distribute light suitably and thus prevent glare.

Walls are painted and ceilings enameled to reflect a maximum amount of good light where it is needed most. A small amount of attention to this subject may mean many more years of good vision for those who otherwise soon would be incapacitated.

Your Children

Food Growth Exhibit Is Nourishment for Child Mind

LONDON: When we stop to think of the number of children in city schools, who never have seen any real country, I believe an innovation is in order that really would cost very little and give them an idea of origins outside of books and specimen cards. Simply to place in small cases within easy view vegetables and grains growing out of real soil. The camouflage would be so easy and the results so satisfying. By camouflage I mean that artificial products could be used where fresh ones would be impractical.

All the grains from which breads and cereals are made would take on a new interest for the child who knows nothing more about them than the boxes they come in. And while we are at it, the idea could easily be enlarged to include most of the raw products of the world, aliberal education for every child.

Getting Acquainted
It was only a few years ago that I first saw cotton growing. I was so thrilled that I insisted on going right into the field and picking a tough boll for myself. To the southern child this is everyday business, but not to those north of the Mason-and-Dixon Line. On the other hand, these children, many of them, are as curious about our northern fruits as we are about their oranges.

My first sight of an orange tree was a red-letter-day indeed. Coffee was a great miracle. But to this minute I never saw tea on its bush. And I have yet to see any kind of melon unjacketed. This, of course, is an omission on my part, but it goes to show how we neglect discovering things unless they are brought right under our noses. This is why I think that my little idea of "real" specimens in their own habitats would be a grand thing for children.

Other Growing Mysteries

Who has seen a peanut growing, that little morsel we devour by the ton daily? Oh, yet, there are those to whom it is just as common as the air they breathe. But that is just it. Something is always news to somebody. And peanuts can be news indeed.

Bananas: is the tiny spot in the fruit the seed? Or is it in large blue bulb that suspends itself from the tree? You may look that one up. We eat tapioca. What on earth is the stuff?

What, actually is asparagus, for that matter? To this instant I have never seen it sprout, but I think I know. We all think we know this and that about our commonest foods. That is the trouble. Why not show the next generation some of the interesting things we have skipped over from sheer inertia? There is the mystery of chocolate, for instance, and cocoa. Can you tell the exact difference? And chewing gum. What does chicle look like?

On and on and on. I haven't begun. But if any school board is looking for a way to spend some money profitably, here is the plan all ready and waiting. Oh, no, to plant a banana tree would be quite a stunt. But miniatures would serve. Indeed they would.

Colony Chaff: Scout Scorns Stage Talent, Gets Option on Spectator

HOLLYWOOD.—Short takes: A talent scout, Oliver Hinsdel, has returned from a Broadway expedition without finding a single stage player worth signing for the movies. But he says he took an opinion on a spectator who sat next to him in a theater one evening.

Perhaps you recall that Carole Lombard masqueraded as a "Princess Olga of Sweden" in the comedy called "The Princess Comes Across." American censors objected, fearing it would offend Swedes. English and French censors actually deleted all references to Sweden. The film is being shown in Sweden now—and with all its original lines. Not only that, but the picture has been retitled: "Princess Olga of Sweden."

Lama to Die Again?
It was months ago that they buried the Grand Lama of "Lost Horizon," with what were probably the most spectacular movie ceremonies ever held. Yet at that time an actor had not even been chosen for the role of the ancient philosopher.

Sam Jeffe finally was selected, and turned in a brilliant performance for the scenes prior to his cinematic death. But now it turns out that the makeup was wrong, so the search for a character, and the filming, may be done all over again. Chances are that "Lost Horizon" won't get out of Tibet before Earliest role of the current season was that of Zuni Vactor, comedian in "The Magnificent Brue." All he said was "yes"—11 times—and "no"—three times. Got $2000 for the job.

Operatic Tones?
The portents are that Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone will do a musical—a semi-operatic one with serious singing. Both are studying voice. Tone is in intensive training with Otto Morando, a noted teacher. Miss Crawford has surprised everybody lately by her willingness to come before the mike in local gay-spots and sing a tune or two.

Patric Knowles, young Britisher who plays Errol Flynn's brother in "The Charge of the Light Brigade," is Hollywood's newest critical rave. The studio already has scheduled his services for five future pictures. . . . "The Charge," incidentally, is something you mustn't miss if you want sustained high-tension drama—the like of which hasn't been seen since the heyday of D. W. Griffith.

Grand Old Lady
Ginger Rogers and Jimmy Stewart seem romantically teamed, off-screen, and may have a picture together. May February, slated for the top spot in "Grand Old Lady," hasn't missed a single season in the theater or films for 54 years. Friends expect an engagement announcement from Alice Faye and Tony Martin. William Powell and Myrna Loy are the latest to be immortalized by being footprinted in the forecourt of the Chinese Theater.

First picture based on the toughest newspaper assignment in a decade—covering the Irish-Ethiopian war—will be "The Man Who Fought Himself," with Gene Raymond turning from comedy to play a serious dramatic part. Mark Oberon's starring picture has been retitled for the last time. First it was "Covenant with Death," then "In Love and War," then "Goodbye, My Love," next "Love Under Fire," and finally "Beloved Enemy."

"Nine Old Men" Etched in Acid.

If the august justices of the U. S. Supreme Court can live through the publication of "The Nine Old Men," by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen (Doubleday, Doran: $2.50), they can live through anything.

Here is a discussion of their records, their personalities, their private lives, and their backgrounds—vital and savage enough, most of it, to make the hair curl.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, for instance, is labeled "the man on the flying trapeze." Justice James Clark McReynolds is called "Scrooge." Justice Pierce Butler, it is said, "as an attorney he pleaded for special privilege and as a judge he creates and sanctifies it."

That gives you an idea. The authors go on to assert that there exist on the bench antagonisms and mutual dislikes so strong that some of the justices are not even civil to one another. They declared hat during recent deliberations over one of the New Deal laws, Chief Justice Hughes was heard to exclaim to his brother justices that they were "ruining the court."

Needless to say, this book does not pretend to be unbiased. It frankly represents a liberal viewpoint which sees much of the court's recent work as sheer obstructionism.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

For Clean System Helps To Prevent Sickness

One of the advantages of Black-Draught is that, if it is taken at the first disagreeable feeling of constipation, one or two doses usually bring relief. Prompt relief, such as that, is well worth while. Constipation is too dangerous to be neglected. "A clean system for health" plan has saved thousands of people much useless sickness. They keep a package of Black-Draught in the family medicine cabinet and take this purely vegetable laxative at the first sign of constipation. They say the relief it brings is mighty hard to beat.

Find out, by trying it, why so many people prefer Black-Draught when it comes to buying a laxative. —adv.

Winter-Proofing Car Is Important

7-Point Checkup Recommended by Magnolia Petroleum Company

Warning to car owners against winter neglect, Motor Enemy No. 1, was given this week by Fred M. Lege, Jr., Vice President of Magnolia Petroleum Company, as he announced "Winter-Proof" protective service to be made available to the motoring public by Magnolia dealers throughout the Southwest, beginning November 1.

This service, originated by Magnolia several years ago, has been growing in favor each year as motorists have learned the value of the semi-annual check-up to insure against the ravages of weather and wear of protecting the vital parts of the automobile.

"Magnolia's 'Winter-Proof' service is a seven-point check-up, preparing the engine, transmission, differential, chassis, fuel, radiator and battery for winter demands," Mr. Lege explained. "It has been devised by engineers to make winter driving more economical and more pleasant, to insure dependable operation and avoid undue wear and consequent need for repair."

"Dealers who display the Magnolia 'Winter-Proof' banner are prepared to replace dirty, summer lubricant with clean, quick-flowing winter Mobiloil and Mobilgreases of the correct grade one of a personality and not a principle.

"On the other hand, I doubt very much that this last election is going to cause the so-called 'Republican' party to see things any differently than it has. The Republicans will try to hold their lines, anticipating that the country will have been so thoroughly fed up with the New Deal four years hence that it will return to the highly reactionary and conservative leadership that has been the outstanding feature of Republicans throughout their history as a party unit."

"Any one with common sense knows that this will never be done. A new economic order is here, and it must be met with solutions of economic and social problems which only the federal government can provide. That is why I anticipate within the coming four years the birth of a new party."

America's farm mortgage debt has been reduced from $9,500,000,000 in 1928 to about $7,500,000,000 today.

recommended by manufacturers. The radiator will be cleaned and flushed of summer accumulations and if necessary the correct amount of antifreeze will be put in; the battery will be checked and refilled for the heavier load it must pull in cold weather. The tank will be filled with winter-grade Mobilgas for quick starting.

"Owners of new cars are especially urged to insure them against early wear by providing winter protection, while motorists who have driven their cars through previous winters will recognize the need for special lubrication and care under the trying conditions of winter operation."

Ban Removed Against Frank-Speaking Novel

LONDON—(AP)—Englishmen can now buy their copies of "Ulysses," James Joyce's once-banned novel, right here in London instead of smuggling them in from France.

"Publication of the book had been forbidden here, but 1,000 copies have been printed and are on sale in London book stores with the knowledge of the police."

The book, which inaugurated the vogue of characters "thinking out loud," was first published in Paris 14 years ago because some of the language was scarcely of the drawing-room variety.

Wilson Remained Silent

Woodrow Wilson was a second-term President who spurned importunities to indicate his preference of a party leader in 1920. Blytheville Coach Expresses Doubt on Proposed Game With Hope BLYTHERVILLE, Ark.—(P)—Coach Carney Laslie and Superintendent of Schools W. D. McClurkin said Sunday night they would confer Monday regarding a proposed football game between the undefeated Blytheville Chicks and Hope Bobcats.

Laslie expressed doubt that the game could be arranged for November 20, the date suggested by Coach Foy Hammons of Hope. He indicated he would attempt to schedule the contest for Thanksgiving Day, an open date on the Blytheville schedule.

Referring to a suggestion that Blytheville cancel a scheduled game with Forrest City on November 20 to meet the Bobcats, Laslie said, "This is one of their biggest games and one of ours, and it seems unreasonable to ask them to call it off."

Laslie said he regarded talk of a "championship" game between his team and Hope "a trifle premature" since Blytheville must meet both Searcy and Forrest City before completing its state schedule and Hope has yet to get past DeQueen and Hot Springs.

Coach Hammons challenged the Chicks Saturday to meet his Hope Bobcats on November 20. The Bobcats have an open date on this day.

Searcy to Meet Chicks

SEARCY, Ark.—With the best gridiron record for several seasons, the Searcy High School Lions expect to put up a hard fight in their game with the Blytheville Chicks here Friday, the 13th, hoping that day's jinx will help them stop the Chicks' winning streak. With 26 consecutive victories, and outweighting the locals nearly 30 pounds to the man, Blytheville is a formidable foe. The Lions believe they can furnish sufficient opposition to make it a real contest.

The Lions are in excellent physical condition. Although Captain "Bull" Williams the big fullback, Evans, both dependable players, were forced out of Friday night's game with Batesville by injuries, they are expected to be in the line-up in top form Friday night.

The two main threats in the Lions' offense are Buddy Wood and Cloy Evans. Quarterback Wood, a triple-threat, is one of the best football generals in Arkansas high school competition. Evans, hard-running line-smashing fullback, also is a good passer and a fine line-bucker. The Searcy team gets plenty of assistance from Sub-Captain Charlie Nichols, the "half-pint" who ran wild against Morrilton, Leo Woods, a fine blocking back, a good pass receiver and a consistent ball carrier, and a fast-charging line which has limited all opposition this season to 19 points. The Lion backs and ends have amassed a total of 202 points.

The largest crowd of the season is expected. Additional bleachers have been built, and the field is well lighted and in splendid condition.

Winning Plays of 1936

On first down, Quarterback Art Guepe called for Marquette's regular off tackle run from the Golden Avalanche's spread formation. Capt. Ray Buivid received the ball and with the field lined up as per the above diagram and blocking assignments carried out perfectly, the great left half-back ran to a touchdown without a hand being laid on him.

Contrary to expectations, the Milwaukee varsity did not employ a single pass in this series and this doubtless had much to do with the successful march down the field.

Marquette went on to repel the California squad 20-6.

Marquette University's unbeaten and untied team brought the opening kickoff back to its 44-yard line and without losing possession of the ball advanced to the Saint Mary's College 13-yard stripe in five plays at Soldier Field, Chicago.

Longinotti Hangs Up Grid Uniform

Knee Injury Forces Trojan Ace to Quit High School Football

HOT SPRINGS.—Captain Paul Longinotti, for two years an all-state high school quarterback for Hot Springs, has played his last football game in a Trojan uniform.

In his own words the diminutive Trojan star has "meeked up" his uniform for the year. A tricky knee injury which has kept him on the sidelines throughout most of the season brought about the decision.

Physicians advised Longinotti following the Little Rock game here October 18 that he should "lay off" football for the rest of the season. The nature of his injury, they said, was such that he might never be able to play football again should he be re-hurt. He graduates from the high school in June.

"I want to play college football," Longinotti declared, "and I can't see any reason to take a chance of being crippled for life."

Injured mid-way in the Forrest City game, the first on the Trojan season, Longinotti never really regained playing condition although he appeared in three other games for brief intervals. Against Jonesboro he was sent in in the last two minutes of play to throw a touchdown pass to big Elmer B. Phillips for the lone score of the game and he started the tilt against Little Rock, only to be re-hurt almost the first time he carried the ball. He also took the field against Pine Bluff, but only to call signals and throw a few passes. He attempted to carry the ball but once was hurt slightly then.

Saratoga-Okay

Mr. and Mrs. S. McKinkins and son, and George McKinkins of Natchez Miss., were visiting relatives in Saratoga Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Allen and children, Roy and Helen Gale, visited her parents at Saratoga Sunday.

Elliot Lightfoot of Saratoga died at the Josephine hospital in Hope early Tuesday morning. Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lightfoot at 3:30 that afternoon by Rev. M. H. Reebles.

Mrs. Leonard Hughes and Mrs. Eugene Cox of Hope and Mrs. Davis Weaver attended the funeral of Elliot Lightfoot at Saratoga.

Mr. and Mrs. Haskell McKinkins of Saratoga announce the arrival of a daughter.

Allen Erwin died at the home of his daughter in ex-Okla. He was buried Wednesday in the Saratoga cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hendrix who have lived in Okay for the last few months have moved to Hope.

E. E. Harris of Okay who has been in the Nashville hospital some time, has returned home.

Pat O'Brien and Howard Anderson were burned last Saturday morning when a switch blew out. They were carried to the Michael Meager hospital in Texarkana. Howard Anderson was able to return home Monday, but Mr. O'Brien was burned more serious.

The teachers in both grade and high schools in Saratoga and Okay attended a teachers meeting in Hot Springs last week.

Torrance Makes Pro Debut Dec. 7

Shot Put Record Holder Turns Attention to Boxing

NEWORLEANS.—(P)—Bo Katz, New Orleans boxing promoter, said Sunday night that Jack Torrance, man-mount-tain holder of the world's shot put record, would make his professional debut in a 10-round bout here December 7.

Katz said papers for the bout were signed with Herb Brodie, Torrance's manager.

Torrance, now in training at Baton Rouge, where he achieved fame as a shot putter, basketball player and football lineman at Louisiana State University, has worked down from 320 pounds he weighed when he competed in the Olympic games this year to 260 pounds.

His opponent for his first bout has not yet been selected, Katz said.

Brodie said that despite the prowess of Torrance's shot putting right now he was showing up in training as a better left-handed puncher.

Old Grid Rivals to Meet Saturday

Little Rock and Pine Bluff Battle Features High School Games

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—Little Rock's Tigers and the Pine Bluff Zebras renew one of the state's oldest and most colorful gridiron rivalries here Saturday, stealing the play from several other interesting high school engagements.

For Coach Clyde Van Sickle's Tigers it will be the last big barrier in their path toward a state championship claim. The Zebras are definitely out of the title picture with one defeat and two ties, but this fact counts but little when these two ancient rivals clash.

Blytheville of the other undefeated Arkansas teams has an off week to prepare for its next week-end game with Forrest City.

The Hope Bobcats, rulers of south-west gridiron, stay in their own territory to engage DeQueen, a team that has been beaten three times. Atkins, a smaller school still piling up victories, has a sectional game with Paris.

Northwest Arkansas's contribution to undefeated ranks, Rogers' Mountaineers, entertain Van Buren.

A crippled bunch of Trojans from Hot Springs, minus the services of Captain Paul Longinotti, trek to El Dorado Friday for a clash with Coach Jimmy Walker's Wildcats. The Trojans took it on the chin for the second time of the season Friday night from Full-back Kizzia and the Camden Panthers.

The Panthers' renew neighborhood warfare this season with Fordyce's Redbuds.

In Western Arkansas Coach Ben Mayo's Fort Smith club will attempt to break back into the win column at the expense of Fayetteville. Clarksville has it out with Sublimo in the same section.

Heading the gridiron show in Eastern Arkansas Batesville's high scoring Pioneers take on Jonesboro's Hurricanes home, red line, Hank-Helena at Wynne and Parkin at Marianna.

Arkansas to Play S. M. U. Saturday

Victory Would Give Porkers First Place in Conference Standings

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—A busy week of intercollegiate gridiron campaigning finds Arkansas teams carrying Wonder State banners against aggregations from four states.

Heading the parade against out-of-state eleven, the Razorbacks from the University of Arkansas go up against the Southern Methodist Mustangs at Dallas Saturday afternoon in the only Southwest Conference battle of the week-end.

A victory for the passing Porkers would give them undisputed possession of first place in the conference standings. A 20-14 win over Rice Institute over the week-end while Texas A&G's were trampling the Mustangs nabled Coach Fred Thomson's charges to creep into a tie with Texas Christian University for top honors in the circuit.

Arkansas State Teachers, having taken Magnolia A. & M., Arkansas Tech and Henderson State Teachers on successive week-end excursions, their unbeaten campaign forward Friday night against West Tennessee College at Conway. The Pedagogs put on their most impressive running and passing display of the season Saturday to rout Henderson, 41-8.

Henderson entertains a tough outfit from the Bayou State Friday at Arkadelphia. Louisiana State University Northeast Center of Monroe, State Teachers disposed of the Louisiana eleven earlier this season, 27-6.

From Oklahoma will come an invasion by the Bacine Indians and the Tulsa University freshmen. The Indians have a Friday engagement with Hendrix's Warriors. The Tulsa frosh are scheduled Friday against the University first year men.

Armistice Day finds Arkansas Tech in an annual affair with Monticello A. & M. at Russellville. Both teams rested last week.

A second interstate contest offers a "little thrice" attraction between Arkansas State and Magnolia A. & M. at Magnolia.

Nine million pieces of linen are used annually by travelers on Pullman cars.

SEATS had been erected on the shade-flecked grounds of Federal Hill, and all of them were filled. Hundreds of people stood, Kate and Major Meed sat far to the rear, but they could see the platform. There had been brief speeches and choral singing of certain Foster songs. A college glee club had done "Susannah" very effectively, and an expensive imported tenor had just sung "Jennie With the Light Brown Hair."

It was time now for Caroline, who was to conclude the program.

Major Meed's hand, resting on his cane, trembled. Kate put her own hand over it. She thought fervently, "Caroline won't fail us. She'll do her best."

And then Caroline walked up the steps of the platform and faced them. She seemed astonishingly small and fragile and fair. The dress hugged her thin waist and billowed to the floor. From her shoulders old lace fell softly. Her ash-blond hair was coiled quaintly and there was a pink rose in it.

The violin and flute accompaniment started. Then Caroline was singing, more surely and sweetly than she had ever sung before.

Kate was conscious of the stillness of the audience. The huge, scattered crowd was giving breathless attention to the sweet old song that bade them "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and to the girl who was singing it, the girl who seemed a tender, lovely ghost from the past.
